

CSNN Vancouver Island COVID-19 Exposure/Outbreak Protocol

CSNN Vancouver Island is taking precautionary steps to ensure the health and safety of staff and students (See Health and Safety Protocols which includes COVID-19 Policies and Procedures document for more information). However, even with these precautionary measures, risk of exposure remains.

1. Anyone who is feeling unwell when in the building must report to administration as per the self assessment screening tool. <https://bc.thrive.health/covid19/en>
2. The unwell person will go through the COVID screening assessment to determine symptoms.
3. The unwell person will be asked to wash and sanitize their hands, be provided with a mask, and asked to go home.
4. The unwell person will be given resources (dial 811) for further guidance and testing information. <https://www.healthlinkbc.ca/health-feature/coronavirus-disease-covid-19>.
5. If the person is severely ill, administration or the instructor will call 911.
6. All other students or staff in the space will be required to sanitize and wear masks. Until further information is available the next classes may then be held virtually.
7. All areas that the unwell person came in contact with will be thoroughly cleaned and sanitized.
8. If the unwell person or anyone who was in the space with the unwell person receives a positive COVID-19 result, Public Health Authorities determine whether the school will be contacted.

CSNN Vancouver Island will take the following steps if faced with an exposure incident:

If Public Health Authorities (PHA) have determined through contact tracing that CSNN Vancouver staff and students are at risk, we will work with PHA and follow their guidance as to next steps.

1. CSNN Vancouver Island will provide PHA with all information required.
2. Through contact tracing, PHA will contact anyone who they determine could be exposed.
3. CSNN Vancouver Island will ensure the school is thoroughly cleaned and sanitized with extra attention to the areas that the COVID-19 positive person came in contact with.
4. CSNN Vancouver will follow the guidance of PHA to determine if any further action is necessary.

CSNN Vancouver Island will take the following steps if faced with an outbreak at the school:

If Public Health Authorities (PHA) have determined through contact tracing that CSNN Vancouver Island is the site of a COVID-19 outbreak, we will work with PHA and follow their guidance as to next steps.

1. CSNN Vancouver Island will provide PHA with all information as required
2. CSNN Vancouver Island would move all classes to our currently established online platform, ensuring students can continue and complete their studies.
3. Should any instruction be unable to be facilitated via an online platform this would be postponed until it is deemed safe by PHA to resume classes at our physical location.
